news & updates

Fall 2023

Program Update

The toddlers are learning all about babies! They make and feed the babies oatmeal, take them for walks, put them to bed and more!

The Exploring Center is finishing up the "All About Me" theme by talking about different emotions. They are also identifying different colors, shapes, and the first letter of their name.

The Discovery Center loves building houses out of popsicle sticks, making family trees, and learning about their new class pet - Bluey the beta-fish!

The Learning Center is getting creative with their counting by using tools and everyday objects to represent numbers.

From Maria's Desk

Dear Ohio Valley Voices Friends and Family,

We did it! The building is complete, and laughter is filling our hallways once again. We started this year with the largest toddler program in our history. Families from all over are scheduling tours and we can't wait to welcome them to the OVV family...Read more.

Staff Spotlight

"Ohio Valley Voices is a place like no other and they will literally try anything and stop at nothing to help any child they can," says Melissa Martin, Large Room teacher for the Exploring Center.

Melissa received her Master of Science in Deaf Education from Washington University. She first learned about OVV when...Read more.
